Does your child “hunt and peck” at the keyboard? Bad habits, such as this, can become ingrained over a lifetime or can require considerable “re-training” to correct. Students, working individually on their own computer, will be taught correct posture and fingering and will work on a self-correcting programme which will improve speed and accuracy. In addition some time will be spent ensuring that the fundamentals of computer operations are understood and that students are familiar with basic word processing operations. Short, fun competitions will ensure an enjoyable and profitable experience
